“Olivette Diner has lost a majority of its customers with only the regulars coming in to get takeout. It’s not worth having a full staff if you’re only getting one or two customers an hour, so the Diner had to lay off employees who had worked there for tens of years, which was so sad to see. It’s really heart-wrenching to see an restaurant,” Jackson Diblasi (10) said.

“We had to close the shop on March 19. We had an e-commerce website, so we quickly put as much inventory online, but our sales are down 80-90 percent. We decided to make their own homemade masks. My family went to stores all over St. Louis looking for face masks...but none had any in stock. My family had a very hard time finding hand sanitizer...The only ones we could find were the travel size ones.” Claire Fredman (9)

“My family and I went to multiple stores including Costco, Schnucks and Dollar Tree to find toilet paper. They were sold out everywhere.” Elliot Clark (10)

“Students feel the stress while shopping during COVID-19 panic. My parents were very stressed out that they couldn’t find any [disinfecting wipes] online or in stores. It is very concerning.” Audrey Christner (11)

“We are all shut down. Businesses Ladue students with that own businesses describe how they are affected by COVID-19.”

“Your students feel the stress while shopping during COVID-19 panic. My family went to stores all over St. Louis looking for face masks...but none had any in stock. My family decided to make their own homemade masks.”

“Since everyone is doing their nails at home because the nail salons are closed, I couldn’t find any nail polish at the store.”

“The store, Timekeepers, is a watch shop in Clayton. It is being affected by us having to be closed and us helping no costumes. We’ve made changes to adapt to the pandemic, like that we are mostly staying home and only doing a little curbside service.” Sarah Perik (10) said.

“The store, Timekeepers, is a watch shop in Clayton. It is being affected by us having to be closed and us helping no costumes. We’ve made changes to adapt to the pandemic, like that we are mostly staying home and only doing a little curbside service.” Sarah Perik (10) said.

“Olivette Diner has lost a majority of its customers with only the regulars coming in to get takeout. It’s not worth having a full staff if you’re only getting one or two customers an hour, so the Diner had to lay off employees who had worked there for tens of years, which was so sad to see. It’s really heart-wrenching to see an restaurant,” Jackson Diblasi (10) said.

“We had to close the shop on March 19. We had an e-commerce website, so we quickly put as much inventory online, but our sales are down 80-90 percent. We are offering free shipping on all orders through our website, and even personally delivering local orders, often seeing. It’s really heart-wrenching to see an restaurant,” Jackson Diblasi (10) said.

“We had to close the shop on March 19. We have an e-commerce website, so we quickly put as much inventory online, but our sales are down 80-90 percent. We are offering free shipping on all orders through our website, and even personally delivering local orders, often seeing. It’s really heart-wrenching to see an restaurant,” Jackson Diblasi (10) said.

“Olivette Diner has lost a majority of its customers with only the regulars coming in to get takeout. It’s not worth having a full staff if you’re only getting one or two customers an hour, so the Diner had to lay off employees who had worked there for tens of years, which was so sad to see. It’s really heart-wrenching to see an restaurant,” Jackson Diblasi (10) said.

“We had to close the shop on March 19. We have an e-commerce website, so we quickly put as much inventory online, but our sales are down 80-90 percent. We are offering free shipping on all orders through our website, and even personally delivering local orders, often seeing. It’s really heart-wrenching to see an restaurant,” Jackson Diblasi (10) said.

“Olivette Diner has lost a majority of its customers with only the regulars coming in to get takeout. It’s not worth having a full staff if you’re only getting one or two customers an hour, so the Diner had to lay off employees who had worked there for tens of years, which was so sad to see. It’s really heart-wrenching to see an restaurant,” Jackson Diblasi (10) said.

“We had to close the shop on March 19. We have an e-commerce website, so we quickly put as much inventory online, but our sales are down 80-90 percent. We are offering free shipping on all orders through our website, and even personally delivering local orders, often seeing. It’s really heart-wrenching to see an restaurant,” Jackson Diblasi (10) said.