1) Quarantine Recommendations from University of Michigan Professors

The image shows a screenshot of an Instagram post from the account 'michigandaily'. The post features a graphic with the text 'INTRODUCING QUARANTINE RECOMMENDATIONS from University of Michigan Professors'. The graphic includes icons for Books, Movies, TV Shows, and Podcasts. The text on the graphic explains that since coronavirus forced students to leave Ann Arbor, the account has compiled recommendations from University of Michigan professors. The post itself contains the following text: 'We've all had more time on our hands. So, we asked @uofmichigan professors from a variety of fields what they are reading, listening and watching while at home. We'll be highlighting some of their recommendations here over the next couple of days, and the whole list can be viewed at the link in our bio.' The post has 1 like and 1 reply from user 'j.gandhi @anthonydibello' who says 'sincerely hope they ask cho'. The post is dated April 28.

INTRODUCING

QUARANTINE RECOMMENDATIONS

from University of Michigan Professors

Since coronavirus forced most students to leave Ann Arbor, we all have had more time on our hands to pick up a new book, listen to a podcast, and watch a new show.

We talked to U. of Michigan professors teaching courses across a variety of fields; from economics to engineering, intro-level to advanced theory. Combined, they have over 150 years of teaching experience. We asked; what are you reading, watching, and listening to during quarantine? We then compiled their responses into:

BOOKS MOVIES TV SHOWS PODCASTS

Some recommendations were related to their courses and interests, others unrelated and whimsical. We'll be posting each professors list over the next few days and the whole list can be viewed michigandaily.com.

semester to the Daily and the newspaper just to see the paper not get printed. It's a lot of heartbreaking disappointment. But this doesn't take away from the hard work, the late nights or the dedication. Here we are, spending what may be our final days of the semester and school year on an almost empty campus. In the midst of this chaos, a lot of us have taken the time to reflect back on the year, scanning through old photos and posting them to Instagram or Facebook. It's devastating to see it come to this abrupt halt as some say their final farewell with life. With goodbyes. As someone who works every day to capture these moments on

We watched a new course. Reggie was there to bless it during its opening. And finally, here are some of our favorite spots in Ann Arbor. We welcomed Joe's Pizza to its first location outside of NYC and have worshipped it since. From walking through the arch in Crisler and witnessed getting a sandwich from Jazwan Howard's first Zingerman's, there's a place for everyone in Ann Arbor. It's easy to feel empty during this time of season as well. We made crisis. Walking around it to the semifinals in the campus and seeing empty Big Ten Tournament and restaurants, stores and who knows, maybe we librarians. Not having a would have won. It's also graduation or getting to see our best friends once Michigan State in football, more before next fall, basketball and hockey. Our traditional sense this year, something of community has been completely compromised. Beyond sports, we were But in these past few weeks,
