SPACE STATION MURDER-MYSTERY GAME GAINS NATIONAL POPULARITY

Let's play one game. Can you guess who the imposters are among us?

The players begin in cafeteria and all make their way together to the card swipe.

Everyone gets their task completed in less than four swipes, and everyone leaves except for sophomore Dan Lehavi and Gwendolyn Goldenberg.

After Goldenberg completes her wires, the lights go down, and she sees her report button light up.

A large "body reported" pops up on screen, and you see white's body was reported.

Where'd they die?

And wait... who was with them last?

Actually... Where was everyone else?

Players huddle around a large round table to discuss who the murderer could be. Junior Jorge Rangel had been sticking with Senior Tijana Karovic for quite some time, and the others think it was starting to become a little suspicious.

"White seems good but is always sus," Lehavi immediately interjects.

Offended, Rangel fires back that he simply "[likes to] make some friends and have fun."

Jumping in, freshman Paul Ecklund states that senior Amber Karimee is safe because they had been together the whole time doing downloads and watching vents.

Suddenly, Karimee immediately turns an accusatory eye towards Senior Gwendolyn Goldenberg.

Defensively, Goldenburg desperately pleads, "I [cant] be an imposter because I'm really bad at being sneaky, lowkey."

Of course, this is not enough for the lobby, and the familiar voting sound fills the air as Goldenburg is voted out. Her body floats across the black space void as the team ejects her from the ship.

White letters show that Goldenburg was not the imposter, sending everyone into a panic.

But who accused them?

Was it Karimee?

Pressing the emergency button once again, Ecklund accuses Randal of being the imposter: "He could have moved around in the vents, sabotaged the map, and killed pink!"

Both Karovic and Lehavi immediately vote white along with the rest of the lobby. Horrified, Randal is ejected into space as the white letters reveal that he was not the imposter.

Wait, so it has to be Karovic and Lehavi?

They both just accused a crewmate.

There are only six people left now though, which means that a double kill is all the imposters need to win. Tensions rise, as three of the crewmates hit the "Use" button and watch the countdown go off. But the imposters use their sabotage to turn on the reactor, so all the crewmates have to run there, giving the imposters more time for the cooldown to run off.

Double kill.

Crewmates see a red "Defeat" as the bodies of red and orange are lit up on screen.

Now you know who the imposters were.

Did you vote correctly?
