

While teasingly placing her finger on senior Andrew Mangold's (Danny) face, senior Isabella Dorrington (Rizzo) sings "Sandra Dee" with seniors Claire Swiss, Katheryn Holloway and Allison Loar (Pink Ladies) watching Nov. 18. In the end, the cast worked well together. "I think as a whole, the cast meshed well together," Mangold said. "I saw how they reflected their characters really well." // Photo by Humberto Bermudez

Before the performance, freshman Brooklynn Parker puts on the finishing touches of her makeup Nov. 19. Parker was a member of the ensemble. "The people and the atmosphere are so fun," Parker said. "It's a really good environment." // Photo by McKenna Dubes

At the beginning of the show, senior Lillian Rayl (Patty) and sophomore Blake Pfannes (Eugene) sit together. It was Rayl's first school theater performance. "I was excited, and I liked my part," Rayl said. "We had an amazing cast. We all just pulled together and performed well." // Photo by Humberto Bermudez

Laughing during a scene, seniors Daniel McGurn and Mathew Webb, junior Lucas VanKeirsbilck and sophomore George Baker play the T-Birds Nov. 18. Webb said many students have seen the movie version of the show, so it felt natural to perform. "Out of all the performances I have done here, this has to be my favorite," Webb said. "The character felt so me." // Photo by Humberto Bermudez

'Rizzo' Performer Wins Legacy Robe

The highest honor for a musical performance went to senior Isabella Dorrington for her role as Rizzo. Alumni Mackenzi Mason gave the legacy robe for "Grease" to Dorrington after her 2019 win for "Little Shop of Horrors."

Theater teacher Danielle Trebus said Dorrington took on a leadership role.

"She went out of her way to make sure everyone was included and everything was done," Trebus said. "Her contribution was enormous."

While singing Betty Rizzo's solo, "There Are Worse Things I Could Do" Nov. 18, Isabella Dorrington (Rizzo) belts the last note in the song. Senior Daniel McGurn (Kinickie) catches Dorrington (Rizzo) Nov. 19 as they act out a scene. "Grease" was Dorrington's seventh theater performance. "It made me rethink what I want to do in the future with theater because I didn't think it touched so many people," Dorrington said. // Photos by Humberto Bermudez and Taylor Le

During the finale Nov. 19, seniors Shelbie Caldwell (Sandy) and Andrew Mangold (Danny) kiss, as the ensemble finishes, "You're The One That I Want." The finale required a quick costume change for Caldwell. "Everyone in the cast gave their all and did such a great job," Caldwell said. // Photo by Taylor Le

While performing the last scene Nov. 16, the cast dances to, "You're The One That I Want." Theater teacher Danielle Trebus said musical attendance broke records. "The whole community just rose and came back," Trebus said. // Photo by Kaylee Miller

Lead Performs With Injury

While playing football, senior Andrew Mangold (Danny), tore his left ACL before the musical. With help from teacher and choreographer Natalie Moyer, Mangold was able to dance and perform even with an injury. "They made my choreography have less motions with my feet," Mangold said. "And they made some scenes where I would be able to sit down." //
