FEMINIST CLUB MOBILIZES THE VOTE WITH CONGRESSWOMAN FLETCHER

Wanting to ensure high turnout in the elections, Nabila Wilson¹² invited elected officials to speak to Feminist Club.

"I was actually just walking around my neighborhood park, and I ran into Ann Johnson, our state representative, at a blockwalking event," Wilson said. "I just went up to her, and I told her I was the president of the Feminist Club and would be honored if she came to speak to us. She ended up showing up and teaching youth the power of voting. The Lizzie Fletcher event stemmed from the Rep. Johnson meeting. One of the people who worked for Rep. Johnson knew someone who worked for the Lizzie campaign. They helped me craft the email. She was a U.S. representative, so it was kind of hard to get a date. However, we eventually decided on one."

After accepting Nabila's invitation to speak to Bellaire Feminist Club, U.S. Congresswoman Lizzie Fletcher (for Texas's Seventh Congressional District) addressed the Bellaire Feminist Club about the importance of getting out their community to vote in the 2022 midterm elections.

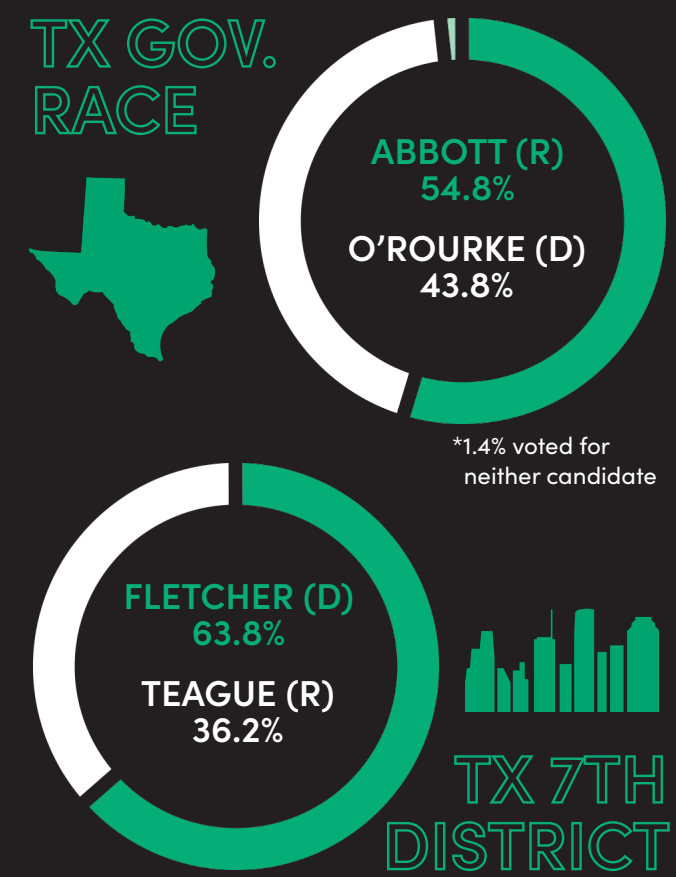

"I just wanted to tell you how important it was to engage, even if you could not vote yet yourself," Fletcher said. "You could have a huge impact by knocking on doors, talking to your family and talking to your friends who were 18 and could cast their ballot. It made a huge difference because so many people did not know the stakes in the election. They were so high."

"I was in debate for a while. I talked a lot about elections, but up to that point I had not actually done anything yet. I was like 'why don't I help facilitate the democratic process'. I worked the e-poll book. I scanned people's ID and then gave them their access code."

"Voting was electronic, which was pretty cool. There wasn't just people on the ballot, there were also questions. There were 90 things. I had to do a lot of clicking. Before, my parents used to tell me, you could just vote a party, and it would select all of them."
