hot day treats

Because the University of Miami is located in South Florida, the temperature can soar into unbearable levels. While sunscreen, sunglasses and hats are a way to keep cool in the sun, there are plenty of cold and refreshing dining options on campus to help keep students cool all year.

STARBUCKS REFRESHERS

Because of extreme Miami heat, students like to cool off with Starbucks Refreshers which can be found at the Starbucks in the Shalala Student Center. There are more than 10 refreshers for students to choose from.

TOSSED SALADS

A cold salad in between classes can help students eat healthy while choosing a food option that is cold instead of hot. Tossed is located in the Storm Surge Food Court.

SMOOTHIE KING BOWLS

As a healthy dining option, students choose to personalize their own smoothie bowls loaded with cold fruit and a frozen base. Smoothie King can be found on the first floor of Lakeside.

COLDSTONE FOOD TRUCKS

An ice cream stop at the Coldstone foodtruck offers students a way to cool down after a long day of classes. Trucks can be found daily at the Rock Plaza.
