

big THINGS

"[All my teammates were] getting tired quicker and everyone was sweating a lot."
Santiago Corredor, 9

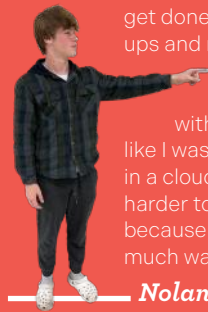

"We did some conditioning outside, but we would go inside when it got too hot. We were all sweating and it was terrible and treacherous."
Alyssa Kackell, 10

"We just got tired a lot. We had to run, and I got tired and needed some water."
Andrew Gilmore, 9

data collected from The Weather Channel, Accuweather, Weather Underground

graph depicts average of both temperature values listed

felt like 118°F
was actually 96°F

"The humidity was around 90%. I would get done with warm ups and my helmet would be covered with water. It was like I was practicing in a cloud, and it was harder to breathe because there was so much water in the air."

Nolan Kruske, 10

AUGUST 21

felt like 113°F
was actually 95°F

"The difficult part was just waking up. Once you started running, it really wasn't too bad, but it was difficult to be there on time. Just because you had to wake up at like, five o'clock to get there on time."

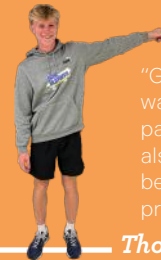

Drew Morris, 12

AUGUST 22

workin' UP A SWEAT

record high temperatures force sports and classes to accomodate

felt like 110°F
was actually 97°F

"Getting up early was the hardest part. There were also no lights at the beginning of our practices."

Thomas House, 11

AUGUST 23

felt like 108°F
was actually 98°F

"Waking up early for morning practice was the hardest. I was really tired so it was hard to be awake to run."

Landry Clement, 10

AUGUST 24

felt like 108°F
was actually 102°F

"It was tough trying to stay focused when it was really really hot and with the sun being extremely bright. It was really hard to look up because the sun was beating off the bleachers."

Grace Christopher, 10

AUGUST 25

Practicing her swings at the South Courts, junior Kaitlyn Barrett prepares for her matches on Sept. 25. "I really like it [Tennis], its fun because all my friends do it" said Barrett. photo by sierra nelson

Fanning herself off, sophomore Lauren Giuliani uses her rest counts to try and cool off during first hour practice. The week of Aug. 21-25 was one of the hottest weeks of 2023. "It's a good team and a good enviroment, I just like to dance and be involed in school," Giuliani said. photo by avery tilley

Waiting for their cue, junior James Lujan and freshman Brandon Elliot look over the peice during the marching band practice with Pace on Aug. 23. The week of Aug. 19-25 was one of the hottest weeks of 2023. photo by avery tilley

Guiding his players through their corrections, Coach Geoff White takes on heat week with his team. photo by emily willhite