Students started to bring energy and cheer on their football team at the home games. Their season opening games against Coral Gables on Aug. 23 and Belén Jesuit on Aug 28 had some of the biggest student turnouts compared to past years. The bleachers were flooded with students cheering the team on to victory.

"This season is much different than last year because we have a lot more energy now and a crowd to perform in front of instead of just playing in front of family and friends," senior Dante De Rosa said.

With the theme of the Belén game being "white out" the- first 150 students received free "white out" t-shirts to wear. The school spirit was definitely one for the books, as almost the entire student body showed up with great enthusiasm to watch the first ever Prep Bowl on Aug. 28.

"It felt great to win the first ever Prep Bowl because we worked very hard as a team all off season to beat our rivals and showed that our hard work paid off," sophomore Will Bettridge said.

The new official name for the outdoor student fan section was the "Blue Zoo." The student body voted on the name they thought fit best, and "Blue Zoo" received the most votes.

"It feels amazing to see more spirit at football games. It makes us play with more confidence and energy seeing our friends rooting for us," De Rosa said.

The addition of a DJ and mascot helped to pump the crowd as well as the team.

"The atmosphere was electric. Our student support is proving to be an important part of our success this year," Football coach James Callier III said.
