Students want changes to living conditions and transparency in the dissemination of ARPA funds.

The Hornet Tribune captures five awards at SEJC’s ‘Best of the South’ competition.

KPMG awards master of accountancy program $750K

Staff report

Klyveel Peart Marwick Ganzelink (KPMG), one of the nation’s “Big-Four” accounting firms, awarded Vaughn College of Business Administration its master of accountancy program a $750,000 grant to implement a program titled the “Master of Accounting and Data Analytics (MADA).”

The master of accountancy program was one of only 16 programs in the nation to receive the prestigious honor. The three-year grant will aid in the MADA program, which prepares students to be competitive in today’s data-driven world by providing specialized skills for practical use of data analytics tools.

The program was awarded based on several criteria, including Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs), with the expectation of creating increased diversity and inclusiveness in the field of accounting and encouraging underrepresented individuals to pursue a graduate education in accounting.

“This collaboration with one of the Big-Four accounting firms will enable ASU to upgrade its curriculum, train its faculty, and have access to the latest data analytics tools and technologies on a state-of-the-art hosted cloud platform provided by KPMG,” said Hingorani. “The aim of Vaughn College is to prepare students that are comfortable with data analytics and technologies on a state-of-the-art hosted cloud platform provided by KPMG.”

“IT’S TIME TO PROTEST”

Students at-quaility in front of William Harper Council Hall in an organized protest regaling their living conditions and the amount of the disbursements distributed from the American Rescue Plan Act.

Kamal Hingorani, Ph.D.

Our program is listed among such institutions as the University of Georgia and The Ohio State University.

Hingorani noted that KPMG is adding new universities to its MADA program, including Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs), with the expectation of creating increased diversity and inclusiveness in the field of accounting and encouraging underrepresented individuals to pursue a graduate education in accounting.

“This collaboration with one of the Big-Four accounting firms will enable ASU to upgrade its curriculum, train its faculty, and have access to the latest data analytics tools and technologies on a state-of-the-art hosted cloud platform provided by KPMG,” said Hingorani. “The aim of Vaughn College is to prepare students that are comfortable with data analytics and technologies on a state-of-the-art hosted cloud platform provided by KPMG.”

“IT’S TIME TO PROTEST”

Students at-quaility in front of William Harper Council Hall in an organized protest regaling their living conditions and the amount of the disbursements distributed from the American Rescue Plan Act.

Kamal Hingorani, Ph.D.

Our program is listed among such institutions as the University of Georgia and The Ohio State University.

Hingorani noted that KPMG is adding new universities to its MADA program, including Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs), with the expectation of creating increased diversity and inclusiveness in the field of accounting and encouraging underrepresented individuals to pursue a graduate education in accounting.

“This collaboration with one of the Big-Four accounting firms will enable ASU to upgrade its curriculum, train its faculty, and have access to the latest data analytics tools and technologies on a state-of-the-art hosted cloud platform provided by KPMG,” said Hingorani. “The aim of Vaughn College is to prepare students that are comfortable with data analytics and technologies on a state-of-the-art hosted cloud platform provided by KPMG.”

“IT’S TIME TO PROTEST”

Students at-quaility in front of William Harper Council Hall in an organized protest regaling their living conditions and the amount of the disbursements distributed from the American Rescue Plan Act.

Kamal Hingorani, Ph.D.

Our program is listed among such institutions as the University of Georgia and The Ohio State University.

Hingorani noted that KPMG is adding new universities to its MADA program, including Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs), with the expectation of creating increased diversity and inclusiveness in the field of accounting and encouraging underrepresented individuals to pursue a graduate education in accounting.

“This collaboration with one of the Big-Four accounting firms will enable ASU to upgrade its curriculum, train its faculty, and have access to the latest data analytics tools and technologies on a state-of-the-art hosted cloud platform provided by KPMG,” said Hingorani. “The aim of Vaughn College is to prepare students that are comfortable with data analytics and technologies on a state-of-the-art hosted cloud platform provided by KPMG.”
Curtis Cothran, a psychology professor at ASU, describes this feat as "an important step in our understanding of the role of..." He continues, "It's very clear that we need to understand..." He then goes on to explain the implications of his research and how it could be used in the future of psychology.

Ross said the investigation revealed..."We need to have those conversations..." She adds, "We must make sure that we are addressing..." She concludes, "These are important steps towards..."

As the meeting began to wind down, Alena Ross and other students..."They were ultimately met with..." She describes the scene as "hostile and confrontational..." She continues, "We need to make sure that we are addressing..." She concludes, "We must work towards..."

While Alena Ross and other students..."They were ultimately met with..." She describes the scene as "hostile and confrontational..." She continues, "We need to make sure that we are addressing..." She concludes, "We must work towards..."