

MARVEL

In the Marvel Cinematic Universe, there has been a huge stack of shows and movies that came out in 2021 after many were postponed due to COVID-19. Here is a look at what's already been released and what else is dropping before the new year.

● WANDA VISION (January 2021) Disney+ Series

WandaVision is a fluffy sitcom that follows lovers Wanda and Vision through the decades but is hiding a secret bigger than they can keep.

"I like WandaVision because of the interpersonal relationship between the characters."
- Lee Kolkmeier, 11

● LOKI (June 2021) Disney+ Series

In an alternate timeline, Loki stole the Tesseract from the Avengers during their Stone Heist in Avengers: Endgame, giving Loki an audience with the organization in charge of time. The show has been renewed for a second season.

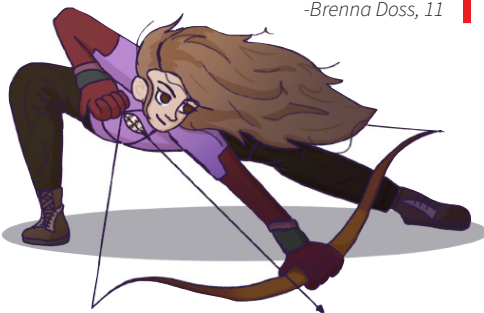

● WHAT IF...? (August 2021) Disney+ Series

This series of standalone adventures follows big parts of the MCU timeline but throws in a twist to keep everyone on their toes.

What if there were multiple hulk?
-Braeden Witherbee, 9

What if Iron Man lived?
-Heather Shea, 11

What if the Avengers never existed?
-Brenna Doss, 11

● HAWKEYE (November 2021) Disney+ Series

The original Hawkeye, Clint Barton has to confront his past with the help of a young archer named Kate Bishop to make it home for Christmas.

"I've always wanted to know more about his backstory and more about him and Natasha's friendship. Also having him as more of a main character, instead of just showing up when he needs to."
- Lily Duncan, 9

2021

● THE FALCON AND THE WINTER SOLDIER (March 2021) Disney+ Series

A buddy-cop show about the Falcon and the Winter Soldier trying to fill Captain America's shoes while also fighting their own battles.

"I liked Falcon and the Winter Soldier the most. I thought it was really emotional."
- Isabelle Apple, 9

● BLACK WIDOW (July 2021) Disney+ and Theatrical Release

After her Avengers family breaks up, Black Widow has to embark on a mission with her old family to take down the Red Room.

● SHANG-CHI AND THE LEGEND OF THE TEN RINGS (September 2021) Theatrical Release

Shang-Chi, a weapons-based martial artist, is thrown face-first into his past after joining the Ten Rings organization.

"My favorite part was the fight sequences since you couldn't tell it was CGI, it was well done."
- Dan Lamb, History Teacher

● THE ETERNALS (November 2021) Theatrical Release

The movie follows the Eternals, a group of celestial beings that have shaped the civilizations of Earth for centuries.

"It seems very interesting how there are ancient forces fighting off dark forces that apparently want to eradicate all of humanity."
- Alex Prudhomme, 9

● SPIDER-MAN: NO WAY HOME (December 2021) Theatrical Release

After Spider-Man's alter ego is revealed to the public, he asks Doctor Strange for help, but the forces required are darker than they can handle.

"Seeing his life after Mysterio outs him but also new superheroes, along with Peter and MJ's relationship. I think the entire movie is going to be really cool."
- Heather Shea, 11

YOU ARE HERE

2022

(Content and Illustrations by Michaela Manfull)

Senior Ash Swift opens Kahoot on a phone. Kahoot is one of the study games teachers use to add fun to their classrooms. (Photo by Sky Hebisen)

PLAY TO LEARN

Most students love when teachers try to make studying fun. Over the years, study games have gotten more and more popular. This is due to their friendly competitiveness and their rising and falling point values until one person or team wins. Some teachers offer prizes that students go crazy for and some students just want to win for the bragging rights.

Some of the most popular study games right now are Kahoot, Quizlet Live and Gimkit. Each game has its own unique quirk that drives people to love the game whether it be the up beat music in the background or the power ups you can get to knock others down. (story by Maya Helbig)

Kahoot

"I like the competition and once in a while they show you who's first, second and third."

Cloei Evans, 9

Quizlet

"I like how crazy it is, like everyone's screaming in the room, it's just fun I like the energy."

Gracie Bauer, 11

Gimkit

"It is very interactive and students learn without realizing that's what they're doing."

Anne McPartland, German teacher